

NEWS FROM THE CITY OF WAYNE

Father Baker, Rev. Stewart to be installed as police chaplains

Wayne's inaugural police chaplaincy program launched

With the blessings of mayor and city council and hopefully the heavenly powers, two prominent members of the cloth will be installed as the inaugural police chaplains of the City of Wayne.

Police Chief Mike Sumeracki Tuesday night informed members of the city council and administration that the Father Jack Baker of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne and the Reverend David Stewart of the First United Methodist Church have agreed to serve as police chaplains.

"The chaplains will not have arrest powers, but they will be occasionally seen with our officers," Sumeracki said. "Other religious leaders have also expressed an interest in the program and will be inducted at a later council meeting."

The police chief pointed out that in October of 2001, local churches were invited to attend a meeting during which plans were announced about the chaplaincy program. Sumeracki went on to say that there was wide-spread support for the program.

"The Chaplain Corps will provide a source of strength and support by providing spiritual assistance to members of our department. Also, the chaplains will serve as ambassadors of good will to the community and participate in public departmental programs," Sumeracki said.

Most area communities have set up chaplaincy programs to assist in the healing process of those involved in traumatic incidents.

Sumeracki also asked for council approval that City Clerk Mary Carney be invited to conduct the swearing in of Father Baker and Rev. Stewart as police chaplains, and that the council and community be invited to witness the solemn ceremony.

Gunlocks offered to local residents

Wayne Police Chief Mike Sumeracki Tuesday night informed mayor and city council that thanks to state funds local residents will be offered free gunlocks.

Gunlocks provides protection for the unwarranted and accidental use of weapons.

"We will be offering the gunlocks to Wayne residents at various city functions throughout the year," said Sumeracki.

"If there are any questions we urge citizens to contact their local police department."

Rep. Rivers to meet with Wayne constituents

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

If you have any gripes or concerns about taxes, or having any local, state, national and international problems, jot them down and bring the shopping list with you to the Wayne Restaurant and Coney Island on Monday.

Congresswoman Lynn Rivers, who represents the 13th Congressional District which includes the cities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster and the local townships, will be in the City of Wayne at 8:30 a.m. until 10 a.m. to receive input from her constituents and she will discuss contemporary affairs.

The meeting will take place at the popular downtown eatery located at 3709 Metro Place Mall.

For further information and directions, please contact Deborah Johnson in Congresswoman Rivers' District Office in Ypsilanti.

Johnson may be reached by dialing 734-485-3741.

NEWS FROM THE CITY OF INKSTER

Inkster Postmaster Darnell Zanders (at left) and former Inkster Postmaster Joe Bodary (right) presented a plaque and a certificate to James E. Johnson upon the occasion of his retirement. Johnson was employed as a United States Postal Services mail carrier for 34-years before he decided to retire. He was honored by postal supervisory, co-workers, and residents at a retirement dinner held in Farmington at Brenda's Beans and Greens. Family members, friends, co-workers and residents in the areas he served turned out in large numbers to wish him well and "good luck" in his retirement years. Photo by Theola Jones

Popular postal employee retires after 30 years

For 34-years James E. Johnson faithfully delivered mail in the City of Inkster. He saw many changes during the more than three decades of service, but when it came to his dedication to work and to the delivering of mail on time, it never changed.

Johnson was known as an efficient, kind, helpful, and competent employee of the United States Postal Service.

And recently, the veteran mail carrier was honored at a Retirement Dinner hosted by his co-workers at Brenda's Beans and Greens in Farmington. Residents, supervisory personnel and co-workers filled the banquet room, and during the two or more hours, they had glowing compliments and praise for the mild-mannered and faithful mailman.

For many years, Johnson was assigned to the Spruce-Henry-Walnut neighborhood area, and he was noted by the residents for "ringing the bell" on "check day."

"Mr. Johnson was always dependable and we could expect him at the usual time every day," said one of the residents.

A few years ago the higher-ups decided to move Mr. Johnson's route, and that move caused many residents to call and some even made trips down to the Post Office to protest this move by the powers that be.

The ironic twist to the reassignment of his route was that Johnson had only to walk cross a street to continue to serve those who resided on his "old beat."

He could be seen daily by the residents coming up to their corner, then turning around. After some time, a decision was made to return Johnson to service his former neighborhood and the residents were very happy. Mr. Johnson was back on his old beat.

Well, this time sadly, he will not be back. He has retired.

Carol Maxwell served as Mistress of Ceremonies; Kathy Rogers and Theodore Sims, Inkster Postmaster Darnell Zander, and former Inkster Postmaster Joe Bodary were among those who attended the retirement party.

Postal officials presented a special plaque and a certificate of commendation to the retiree. Co-workers and residents wished him well as he began a new adventure in his life.

The honoree, not known for speaking many words, he says, thanked everyone for attending his retirement dinner and being a part of this special day in his life.

Residents also expressed their appreciation to Johnson for his thoughtfulness, his kindness, and his service to his community.

They all agreed that Mail Carrier James E. Johnson will be missed.

Sorority names awards recipients

A local sorority has named the recipients of its annual awards.

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., Zeta Nu Zeta, has selected Norena Lumpkin-Knox as its "Zeta of the Year," while the Honorable Judge Debra Ross Adams was picked as the Woman of the Year.

Judge Adams and Lumpkin-Knox will be honored during the annual Zeta Phi Beta Sorority's formal recognition program, the Finer Womanhood Luncheon, which is scheduled for noon on Saturday, March 16.

The program will be held at the New Hawthorn Valley Country Club in Westland.

"These two fine women, who have done so much for their communities and have achieved so much in their lives are to be commended for their work," said Addie R. Faulk, chairperson for the Finer Womanhood program.

For ticket information for this year's program, please contact Faulk at 734-728-4512.

Bleeth gets "star treatment" from courts

Some observations:

Can you say "star treatment." That's what Yasmine Bleeth received from our county court system when she was sentenced to two years probation last week.

The former "Baywatch" star crashed her rental car on I-94 last summer and Romulus Police officers found a veritable pharmacy of drugs and accessories in her car, as well as an intoxicated driver and passenger.

If it were you or I, we would be in jail today. Ms. Bleeth, because of her celebrity status, had one count of drug possession totally expunged, thus allowing her to skip any jail time. She did get slapped with mandatory drug testing- oh, give me a break, don't most athletes and public figures get through drug testing periodically- and she will have to do 100 hours of community service.

Ms. Bleeth was caught by TV cameras last week pleading her case in court. She told a judge she was clean and sober since the incident and was very sorry. I, quite frankly, don't believe it; but the star-struck judge sentenced her to nothing.

Newly elected Romulus City councilperson Charles Miller doesn't like this newspaper, and I don't understand why. At a meeting a couple of weeks ago, he did the highly unusual- he took the podium to verbally attack our reporter, Stefanie Carano.

It seems Mr. Miller thinks we should not print certain items that might appear negative to the City Council or new administration. In particular, that evening, he didn't like our account of resident Steve Lewkowicz's attempts to get city council to shutdown a local towing company.

Miller has to realize that he is now a public official and has to have some sensitivity towards the local press. After being elected, we asked to do a profile on who many considered a surprise to win election. He refused. Before the election another reporter tried to extract a platform from the candidate, only to be told everyone knows what I stand for.

You don't have to like us, Mr. Miller, we understand. But you do need to understand our master is neither you, the mayor or City Council. We take our direction from all the residents of Romulus, and when you try to intimidate our reporter into not reporting certain items, you are indirectly censoring the news available to Romulus citizens.

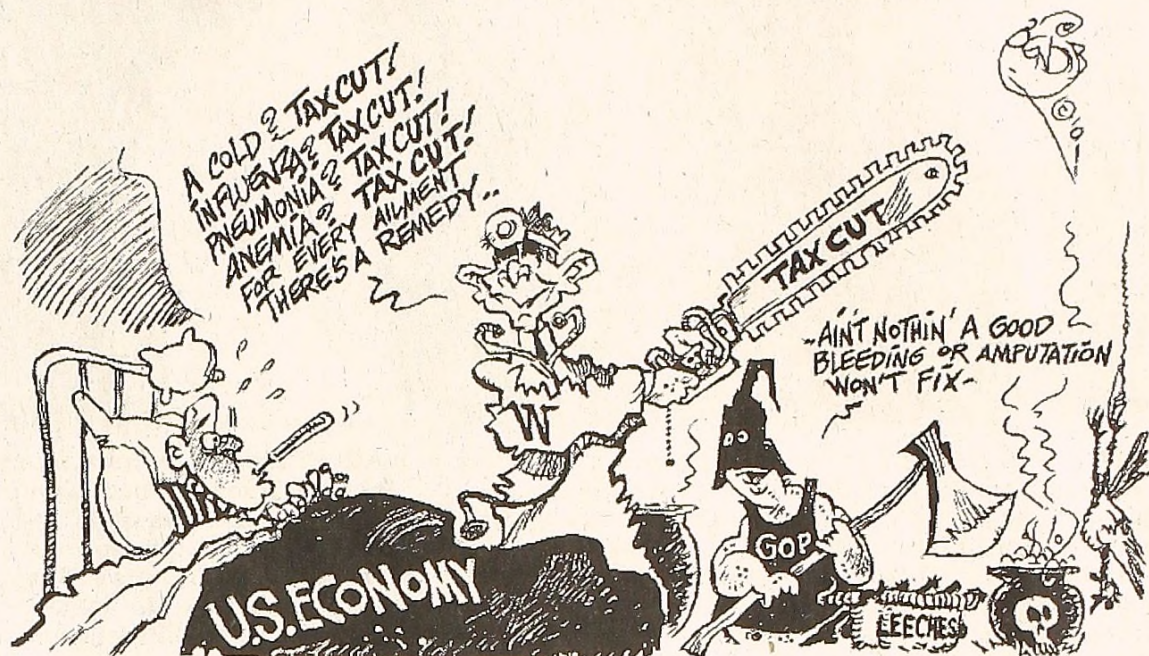

That said, it is nice to report that the Romulus City Council refused an 8% pay raise at their last council meeting. That's right, a compensation board told officials they were underpaid when compared to other cities of a similar size and that a raise of 4% now, and 4% the next year was in order.

Lead by Councilpersons William Crova and LeRoy Burcroff, the Council voted not to accept the pay raises, in light of the September 11 tragedies and revenue sharing drops.

Mike's musings

Mike Wilcox

Proud of council - almost

To the editor:

What a sad commentary it is for the city of Wayne, when an elected city official publicly attacks an active senior citizen.

Just as we, as a city have gained national attention for electing our first mayor — finally something positive our city can be proud of — Pam Dobrowolski states the campaign was not "squeaky clean" and that she would know.

Pam are you referring to the old appointed mayor you sat beside or the new peoples elected mayor you set on the right side of currently?

I have had the privilege of growing up in the city of Wayne and I have seen elected council people come and go. I have never been more proud than I am today of my city, my mayor, and my council, with only a few exceptions.

As public figures you must set the example of great citizenship, and taking criticism is to be expected. I am very sad and disappointed by the comments made by Council Person Pam Dobrowolski.

I will certainly remember her childish comments next election. I am greatly concerned that an elected official would make a decision about the appointment of the Local Officers Compensation Commission, based on her feeling being hurt.

Our great city should not be her person forum for revenge. I expect my elected official to be more responsible with the opportunity to lead our city. It is a privilege to serve on the Wayne City Council. We trust that the best interest of our city will be served; and by exercising our right to vote we demand it.

As for Cliff Johnson, his reputation speaks for itself, to defend him would do him an injustice.

Respectfully,
Danielle Green

Ford shakes off Nasser

Ford Motor Company took a big hit last week.

If the world's second largest automaker, which employs about 345,000 employees on six continents, can start bleeding money, what about the rest of us?

Given the current recession, I'd say most of us would be well advised to stock up on bandages to stem the flow. Ford's reversal shows just how vulnerable even the mightiest are in this global economy.

"That's the nature of our business," said Roger Caldwell, president of UAW Local 845, which represents workers at the Sheldon Road Visteon plant. Visteon supplies Ford with heater and air conditioning units.

Before its trouble started, Ford was on a winning streak. Its cars and trucks were best sellers. Then came the Firestone debacle, where the company had to recall and replace tires at a large cost in money and reputation. And then came the 9-11 atrocity, which put the screws on the national economy.

But Ford's reversal had other factors.

"A lot happened because of mismanagement," Caldwell said. "When Jac Nasser took over as CEO, Ford one of soundest companies with about a $20 billion cash reserve. Ford was a heartbeat away from being the number one car manufacturer for the first time in history. Then he came in and put in all this BS stuff and tried to run Ford like a European company. He got away from the buyers of the product."

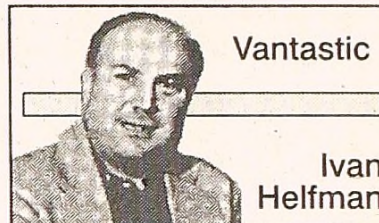

Though I know little about the automobile industry, Nasser quickly had set off warning bells in my mind as he pushed out many of his best and most experienced employees in the name of "diversity."

Many of Ford's best designers and new car developers left the company after interpreting Nasser's statements about "diversity" to mean that promotions would be based on more on skin color than merit. On their way out, a few of the pushed-out employees contacted the media, warning that the company's new car development would suffer without a proven team.

A longtime critic of the "diversity" movement, I picked up on this early in Nasser's career and spent a lot of time sounding out the remaining Ford workers about how Nasser's pursuit of "diversity" was driving out Ford's best talent.

But at the time, nobody at the company would criticize Nasser and the nation's mainstream press was too tame to go after somebody so politically correct.

Unfortunately, corporate mergers and takeovers have changed the nation's newspapers for the worse. In my opinion, newspapers have taken a bigger hit than car manufacturers.

Vantastic

Miami Herald columnist and best-selling novelist Carl Hiaasen puts it best in Basket Case, his current novel: "They [conglomerate publishers] dream of a day when hard news is no longer allowed to interfere with putting out profitable newspapers."

Unfortunately, this attitude has created reporters who shirk "from stories that demand depth or deliberation, stories that might rattle a few cages and raise a little hell and ultimately change some poor citizen's life for the better."

So the press dropped the ball on Nasser, allowing him to chip away at a great company under the nation's radar. As a result, Nasser created some affirmative action managerial jobs at the cost of about 35,000 jobs worldwide, the number of workers Ford has or will let go because of his policies.

Of these 35,000 layoffs, buyouts, and firings, about 21,500 were in North America, including 15,000 hourly, 5,000 salaried, 1,500 agency employees, and one CEO.

Though Ford stockholders had failed to nip Nasser's policies in the bud, they sent him packing while there was still time to turn around the company. And this time, Ford's board of directors has put the company in competent hands, Bill Ford.

As everybody knows, Bill Ford came forward last week with a new plan.

"Our revitalization plan is based on executing the fundamentals of our business to build great products," said Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Bill Ford.

It's an ambitious but tough plan. Besides eliminating jobs, it will reduce stockholders' dividends, streamline production, and get rid of unprofitable cars, including the Lincoln Continental, a luxury car that radiated elegance for about 60 years. Unfortunately, it will reduce production at the Wayne Assembly Plant.

But will it work? "We have a good product, so if we keep a positive focus, we're going to be fine," said Jim Demmer, vice-president of the Demmer Automotive Group.

"I'm thrilled with the new plan," said Caldwell.

Though I am not happy with the layoffs and firings, I expect the plan to succeed as long as Ford gets out of the "diversity" business and back into the car business.

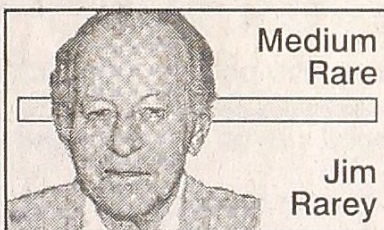

It's legal, but is it moral?

Man-made laws can create a moral dilemma for some. Is the fact that something is legal sufficient justification for doing it or are there other considerations?

First, let us recognize that there is a difference between moral behavior and "ethical" behavior. Morality is based on a code of conduct according to external rules, e.g. the Ten Commandments that came from God. Ethics is an attempt by men to substitute their own judgment as to what is "right or wrong" for that of God's judgment.

God's rules don't change. He is the same today, yesterday and forever. But by ignoring His rules and substituting our own, we now live by what is called "situation ethics." What might be "wrong" in one situation may be entirely justified in another.

Under virtually any code of morality, it would be wrong for a private citizen to take property from another private citizen under the threat of the use of force and sell it (at a profit) to a third private party. That would be called extortion and could be prosecuted as a felony.

Medium Rare

Yet the courts and our elected representatives have allowed the government to do exactly that as long as the claim is made that the "public" will benefit by jobs being created for a few individuals.

The sanctioning of these actions by government is a perfect example of situation ethics, sometimes called a double standard. What is wrong for an individual is "good public policy" when done by government.

The lottery is another good example. When run by private individuals, it is called racketeering and the full force of government is used to stamp it out.

When run by the state, it is to fund education (although it really doesn't, it just frees up other money for government to spend). Ironically, the numbers "racket" used to have better pay-offs (odds) than the state run version.

People seem to think of government as some monolithic, impersonal entity that has little relationship to themselves. It is not. Government is made up of people much like you and me. Collectively, they make laws and decisions on our behalf.

When one breaks a moral code, he is called a sinner. The current euphemism for transgressors against a code of ethics is "ethically challenged." We are told we can't apply a moral code to the actions of government because it is based in religion. And a majority of the public seems to have bought that con.

In the final analysis, it is we, the public, who are sinners or ethically challenged because we keep electing the extortioners (and worse) to public office.

SOUND OFF EXTRA

Publisher thanked for column on foreigners living here on expired visas

I want to commend and thank Mike Wilcox for his column on immigrants who are here on an expired visa.

It's time somebody somebody stood up for our government and tried to protect us from illegal people.

Thank you and keep up the good work.

Jan. 17 story on police chief's decision to stay was riddled with holes

Your story on Emery Price did not state the whole truth. Emery decided to stay, but he also wants to get his pension also. He asked the city council to give him his pension and his salary at the same time.

The problem was that our department also got to vote on it and the union said no in a union meeting vote. He wanted to double-dip and to keep us from being promoted. That's why it never went to the council right before Christmas [the caller alleges]. Why not ask a few officers or council people or that poor excuse for a mayor what the real story is? Your story makes it sound like he's doing us a favor. What a joke that is.

He altered the deputy chief's assignments because he's so mad. There's another story for you.

Family counts the paragraphs in Angela Todd's long letters

The recent inane rambling by Angela Todd was down to 34 paragraphs. Thank you for shortening things up.

This household doesn't waste our eyesight actually reading any of it, we just count the paragraphs.

Thank goodness citizens were able to comment about council presidency

Why didn't the original Westland City Council agenda allow citizens' comments before the voting of council president?

Thank goodness that got changed. Why was it a secret that the former clerk was going to take a job with Sandy? That was another last minute bit of information that should have been stated sooner.

Don't play the public for a fool.

Hope that politicians will work to protect constituents' rights

You cannot keep politics out of a political organization. Judy McKinney was right about that.

Everyday we see politics in the workplace, in the sports world, even in our schools and churches. There is no way to keep politics out of any government. All you can hope is that the politics that occur are working to protect our rights and freedoms.

The decision to have an elected clerk will mean that politics will come into play even if we don't like it.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Campaign finance law won't work

To the editor:

Citing the need to keep outside money away from Michigan elections and to level the playing field among interest groups, the 91st Legislature has given us a new campaign finance law. Limits have been imposed on the practice of bundling, the act of collecting contribution checks from multiple individuals with shared interests and forwarding them together to a candidate for public office. Under the new law, bundling by an organization is limited to $34,000, the same limit that applies to a direct contribution from a political action committee to a candidate's campaign.

The new law doesn't begin to address the problems of outside money. In the 2000 election cycle, the federal parties transferred more than $24 million in soft money to the Michigan Republican and Democratic Parties' state political accounts. That is 20 per cent more than all the candidates for state office combined had in their campaign accounts. The new law does nothing to address that outside money.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce spent more than $5 million on judicial issue ad campaigns in five states, including Michigan, in 2000. None of those expenditures were reported on any campaign finance report. And the new law does not address that outside money.

There are numerous examples of interest groups and individuals spending without limits on campaigns that make a mockery of the idea of an even playing field. Political action committees were conceived as a way to give small contributors with shared interests a means to counterbalance big-money interests. In contemporary elections, PACs are used as fronts to allow big contributors to spend on campaigns without limits. In the recent Detroit mayoral election, the Burton Leland Leadership Fund spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in "independent expenditures" on behalf of candidate Gil Hill and just four individuals contributed more than 90 per cent of the money. In the 2000 Supreme Court election, the Ann Arbor PAC spent more than $300,000 on three candidates and one man, Tom Monaghan, gave that PAC more than 87 per cent of its funds.

There are obvious ways to level the playing field. There should be limits on contributions to the state parties' political accounts and state PACs, just as there are limits on contributions to the federal parties' political accounts and federal PACs. Bogus issue ads that are the main vehicle for anonymous negative campaigning should be treated as election expenditures, and they should be subject to all the rules thereof.

Public policy should be developed in the public interest, not in the private interest of campaign contributors. Campaign finance reform is a keystone issue that affects all areas of public policy. Our Legislature must summon the political will to address the core of the matter. The bundling bill misses the mark.

Sincerely,
By Richard Robinson

Civil Service should hire director

To the editor:

This is to all those who think that because someone states their concerns and dislikes about the mayor's or city council's decisions, it is sour grapes.

In my opinion, you couldn't be further from the truth. It is the right if not duty of every American to express their opinions and concerns about any form of government. That is what makes this country what it is.

This miracle is not that so many express it, but that so few do.

To Barbara Redding these were not personal attacks against Sandy Cicirelli, these are opinions about her decisions.

As far as Lori's last day, your opinion and mine vary completely, and you are entitled to yours as well as I am mine. No one has to agree with who is elected, and everyone is entitled to question actions taken by an government body. They just aren't entitled to yell scream or argue with them, and so far I haven't seen that done.

As far as slander, I haven't heard of any yet, only personal opinions. And I'm still waiting to hear what degree Peggy Ellenwood has.

I personally feel insulted that it was implicated that she and Barb Marcum hold the same degree, yet all I heard was Peggy is licensed to practice nursing home administration, which is a far cry from having a degree in gerontology.

What it all comes down to is the city charter needs revision, and the outrageous control that any mayor in Westland has needs to be curtailed.

My opinion, the Friendship Center should not be a political entity but a civil service job, not an appointment.

And for your information, it is not a Lori Brisk following, it is the right thing to do as the quote as been made repeatedly over the last year.

Showtime: Belleville vs. Romulus

Kroegel: 'Our next 3 games will define our team'

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

The first of three crucial games awaits defending Mega Conference-Red Division basketball champ Belleville.

Friday night, Coach Mike Kroegel and the Tigers will place their 3-0 Mega-Red and 7-1 overall record on the block at Romulus, and that crucial game is followed up by a visit on Tuesday by River Rouge, always a title contender, and the following Tuesday, Belleville has to contend with Willow Run.

As Kroegel sees it, "Our next three games will define what we will do the rest of the year in the conference. And, needless to say, the first of the three may set the tempo for the other two."

Romulus coach Guy DelGiudice agreed with the Belleville coach's analysis. The veteran coach says he knows that "the pressure is on us to produce."

"It's a game that we need to win to stay alive," said DelGiudice. "They (Belleville) are undefeated in the division. We have lost one. That means, if we lose, that would put us behind by two, and it will be tough to catch them."

Both teams come into the showdown with momentum: Romulus knocked off Monroe, 58-48, and Ypsilanti, 37-31 last week, while Belleville blew Monroe away, 71-47, for its seventh win in eight starts.

Balanced scoring provided by James Holmes, Tiron Jones, Darryl Hudson, Charles Woodford and Martin Samarco was just too much for Monroe which fell behind 17-10 in the first period but crumbled under the onslaught of the fast-breaking Tiger offense.

Belleville led by more than 30 (41-19) at half-time as Kroegel shuffled his personnel in and out of the game to give everyone an opportunity to play.

Hudson connected on two big three-pointers and Woodford scored all seven of his points in the first half, while Samarco chipped in four points in the Tigers' 24-point second quarter. Holmes and Jones each scored 11 points before retiring for the evening to allow their teammates some playing time.

The Tigers know it will not be easy Friday night, especially playing on Romulus' home turf. The two have waged some classic battles in the past, and this one should also be a barnburner.

One thing for sure, better arrive early if you want good seats. School officials are expecting a standing room only crowd.

The pain continues in Wayne

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

The pain of losing the close ones carried over into the new year for basketball coach Wayne Woodard and Wayne Memorial.

After an at-the-buzzer basket launched by Willow Run's Darnell Patterson buried Wayne, 52-21, on Tuesday, Wayne came back and gave perennial Mega-Red hoops power, River Rouge, a battle to the end before falling 56-42, Friday night at Rouge.

"We play hard and we play our hearts out," said Coach Woodard Sunday night. "We just can't win. But I can say this, if we continue to work the way we are, because the chemistry is there, we're going to win our share before this is all over."

The loss to Willow Run really hurt because Wayne had the lead, 51-49, and possession of the ball with three seconds left. However, the inbound pass, thrown long and high, hit the ceiling. The ball automatically was awarded to Willow Run, and the Flyers had three seconds to decide what they wanted to do.

They went with their ace.

Patterson got the inbound pass and managed to release the ball as the final whistle sounded. The ball soared from 20 feet out and swished the nets with the winning basket that rocked the gym.

It was a close game to the end as each team scored 12 points in the first period. At the halfway mark, Wayne has a 24-23 edge and widened it to four points, 39-35, for three quarters.

Thanks to Patterson's last-second three-pointer, the Flyers outscored Wayne 17-12 in the final quarter.

Patterson finished with 12 points, six less than teammate Andre Gardette, who scored a game high 18 points.

Wayne put only one player in double figures against Willow Run and that player was T. J. McClain whose 15 points included a nine of 12 effort at the foul line.

In Friday night's game, Rouge bolted to a 16-6 lead over the cold-shooting Wayne in the opening period as Don Crawford chipped in six of the Panthers' points, and the Panther star continued to set the

Romulus makes its move in the Mega-Red Division

Romulus kept in striking distance of defending Mega-Red Division champ Belleville last week by boosting its record to 3-1 in the conference with decisive victories over Monroe and Ypsilanti.

A healthy Anson Long, who sustained an ankle injury during a pre-season practice, looked fully recovered last week. He managed to hold Monroe star Mike Leach to 11 points while scoring a game-high 16 in the Eagles' 58-48 victory over the Trojans.

Then, on Friday, Coach Guy DeGiudice's Eagles proved that they, too, can play as "methodical" as any team in beating a methodical Ypsilanti team by a score reminiscent of the late 1940's. Holding Ypsilanti to single digits three of the four quarters, Romulus beat back the Braves, 37-31 for their third divisional victory in four starts.

By the way, Romulus scored in double figures only in the first period.

In preparation for their showdown with Belleville, set for Friday on the Romulus home court, DelGiudice and the Eagles entertained Ypsi Lincoln on Tuesday.

Against Monroe, both teams came out shooting and when the smoke cleared, each had 15 points for the first period. Then, Ron Coleman and Ron Buckley joined Long at the shooting range, the Eagles outscored Monroe 16-6 to take a 31-21 lead into the locker room.

Romulus outscored Monroe by three (11-8) in the third period, while Monroe came back and scored their hosts by a trey in the fourth (19-16).

Long, who has to wrap his ankle before each game, finished with 16 points. Coleman added 12 and Buckley scored 10. Charles Searcy also contributed eight points but managed to dish off passes that gave him eight assists.

Along with Leach's 11 points, Monroe got 10 points from Pat Sharon. A combination of defense and patience paid off for the Eagles who parlayed a seven point, (15-8) first period lead into a 37-31 victory over Ypsi. Romulus defense held the Braves to seven points in the third and five in the fourth quarters.

"They zoned us. I thought that both teams played excellent defense," said DelGiudice later. "They (Ypsi) like to play a methodical game and reject the run-and-shoot style for nine passes, then maybe shoot."

"Fans may not like the style. You have to be ready to adjust or you're going to have problems."

Coleman had 10 of his team's 37 points and he also grabbed seven rebounds. Buckley and Searcy each had seven points. But Searcy, an All-State running back, also carded three assists and three steals.

Although he looked 100 percent recovered from an ankle injury, Romulus guard Anion Long (with ball) wasn't. But the 6-2 senior guard helped the Eagles post back-to-back victories last week against Ypsi (above) and Monroe. Long and the Eagles must come through with another big game if Coach Guy DelGiudice's ball club is to snap Belleville's three game Mega-Red win streak Friday night. Photo by Carl Brown.

Not this time! Salem beats its nemesis

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

In recent years, Northville has held the upper hand on the hardwood with Plymouth-Salem. But not in its first encounter of the 2001-2002 Western Lakes Conference campaign.

Although the Mustangs jumped out to a 10-7 first period lead and held a slim, 22-20, lead for two periods, the Rocks came back in the second half and made their free throws when they counted to pull out a 52-47 victory on Tuesday.

On Friday, Salem continued to live dangerously but survived a close call against Walled Lake Western. After spotting the Warriors a seven-point lead (20-13) in the first period, the Rocks again came-from-behind and won a close one, 63-60, to improve their overall record to 4-4. Thanks to their modest 2-0 Western Lakes Conference record, Salem finds itself at the top of the conference standings sharing the lead with North Farmington. The two will decide on Friday night which team deserves to remain on top.

Both of Salem's games last week

"I felt the key (to winning) in both incidents was our performances at the free throw line" were close, and played well, but the Western encounter was a "physical one", the veteran Salem coach noted.

"I felt the key (to winning) in both incidents was our performances at the free throw line," Brodie added. "When it counted we made our free throws."

Against Northville, Salem's 6-4 junior forward Dave Hoskins knocked down five of his seven offerings at the line, while Pat Abraham made three of five. Stevland Davis also

Canton splits with conference rivals

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Plymouth-Canton last week earned a split decision against conference hoops rivals leaving Coach Jeremy Rheault to ponder his team's fate in the race for the Western Lakes Conference championship.

"We ran up against one of the finest teams I have seen in the past decade at Livonia Stevenson and came up short," said the Rheault who is in his second year as head coach at Canton, but has served as an assistant coach for more than a dozen years. "I still think there are at least six teams that can win it."

"And I am not excluding our kids."

Canton started the week and the new year with an impressive victory over Walled Lake Central on the Central home court. Striking early thanks to the balanced scoring of Billy Gazsi, Jason Priebe, and Andy Meagrow the Chiefs jumped out in front 16-10 and never trailed until they posted a 62-52.

Gazsi, who sank eight of his 10 free throws, finished with a team high 19 points, one point shy of Central's stellar sophomore guard, Brandon Cissisi, who had 20.

Priebe, a 5-10 senior guard, added 17 points after hitting on five of his six three-point attempts. Meagrow finished close behind with 16.

Central never got closer than seven, and that was in the third period.

"We played against a Central team that has lost some of its key players to injuries," Rheault pointed out. "When they (Central) get their

Glenn comes alive against Franklin, Harrison

Rockets are poised to stretch win streak to 4

Westland John Glenn and Coach Joel Lloyd began the 2002 phase of the high school basketball season with back-to-back victories over Western Lakes Conference opponents Livonia Franklin and Farmington Hills Harrison.

The Rockets are now poised to stretch their modest two-game winning streak to four games as they face two teams - Howell (Tuesday) and Farmington (Friday) - that are beset with problems. Both the Howell and the Farmington game are scheduled to be played on the Glenn pine.

Ending 2001 on a sour note, the Westlanders came back Tuesday night and treated a Parents' Night crowd and themselves to an impressive 51-38 victory over Franklin.

Then, on Friday, they disposed of Harrison, 60-49.

The two conference victories boosted Glenn's overall record to 4-3 on the year.

The Rockets, behind the scoring of juniors Darnell Wilson and Darnell Smith, worked their way to a 15-10 first period lead in this methodically-played game of nerves. Both sides, set aside the random shot and decided to work for percentage shots which inevitably helps keep the scoring down.

The game was close until the last quarter. Although the hosts led from the initial tip, Glenn could not break away from the Western Division representative. The Rockets maintained a 26-21 lead at half, increased it to six (40-34) for three periods.

In the fourth period, in its bid to get the ball, Franklin was forced to foul. Instead of folding at the foul line, Glenn capitalized and was perfect at the line where they canned seven of seven (they made 12 of 18) for the game.

Wilson, a 6-3 junior, scored a game high 19 points, while Smith, also 6-3 and a junior, finished with 14 points.

Franklin's Matt Austin was the Patriots' high scorer. He had 10.

The Rockets scored the first 12 points of the game against Harrison as Jeff Brantley hit a pair of threes and Smith scored four of his 14 to stake their team to a 16-10 lead in the first period. They increased the margin to 12-points, 28-16, at the intermission and enjoyed a 20-point edge at times in the third period as Jerrett Smith rocked the gym with a pair of back-to-back treys that came 12 seconds apart.

In the stretch, the Westlanders again were deadly at the foul line as they hit on nine of 11. For the game, the winners were 11 of 16.

Brantley, who serves as the team captain, wound up with 16 points, the game's high. Darnell Smith chipped in with 13, while younger brother, Jerrett Smith, added 10.

The best of Harrison was Matt Elsey, who tossed in 14 points.

Robichaud works overtime to beat Inkster

Although rusty from inactivity, Inkster proved to neighboring Robichaud that it should not be taken lightly on the hardwood.

And, as a the cliché goes, you always toss out records when these two natural, neighboring rivals meet.

Inkster, 0-3 on the year after a late start, ran up against 6-1 Robichaud in a Mega-White Division game Friday night before a standing room only crowd and, although Coach Steve Brooks' Vikings fell, 64-60, it took Robichaud an overtime to pry loose the victory.

"I thought we played an outstanding game against them," said Brooks afterward. "We had our opportunity to win it, but didn't. But it was one of those games that I felt no one walked away losers. It was just a good high school basketball game."

Inkster's Brandon Dawson, who finished with a game high 20 points, hit a three with 1:08 left in the fourth quarter to tie the game at 54.

Then, after Robichaud failed the score on its next trip downcourt, Dawson could have put the Bulldogs in the dog kennel with the final shot in regulation. The ball bounced off the rim and out of bounds, forcing the OT.

In the OT, Robichaud's "big men", Marcus Johnson and Bill Bryson, rallied the troops. The Bulldogs outscored their hosts 10-6 in the extra period.

Two other Inkster players broke into the double figure scoring column. Victor Morris scored 15 points and Dwayne Jones tossed in 13. Johnson, tallied 17 points and he grabbed a dozen rebounds. Bryson added 11 points.

As usual school officials had to turn away fans at the door because of the capacity crowd.

However, atypically there were no incidents that called for police intervention.

"Even though they were sad-den by the loss, our kids congratulated Robichaud on their victory," Brooks related. "That's what high school athletics is all about - friendships and camaraderie. I am proud of our kids.

Moved from the Mega-Red to the White Division two years ago, Inkster is in a division that also consists of Robichaud, Dearborn, Fordson, Taylor Kennedy, Taylor Truman and Highland Park. Undeclared Highland Park is leading the league.

Inkster visited Dearborn Tuesday night. The Vikings will return home Friday night to entertain Taylor Kennedy.

Chiefs 4th at DCC mat tourney

Plymouth-Canton's Phil Rothwell managed to stretch his personal winning streak on the mats and lead the Chiefs to an overall fourth-place finish at the Catholic Central Wrestling Invitational, staged in Redford Township over the weekend.

Rothwell, a 215-pounder, pinned his way through the finals to capture a gold medal at the tough tournament which attracted such outstanding talent as Davison, a team that is focusing its sights on the state crown. Westland John Glenn placed third, behind the host Catholic Central, which was runners-up, and Davison.

Rothwell holds the record with 81 in season high school pins.

"According to the referees at the tournament, they felt some of the finest wrestling of the tournament was turned in by our two captains - Greg Musser, a 145-pounder who finished second, and Doy Demsick, a 130-pounder who placed third in the tournament," said John Demsick, Canton coach.

Canton placed seven of 11 wrestlers in the top six places in the CC tournament.

"Even though we would have liked more, all things considered, our wrestlers wrestled great," Demsick added. "We took on a lot of state placers and state qualifiers in this invitational and I felt we fared well."

Also turning in strong performances from Canton were Mike Siegrist, who finished fourth at 152; Chris Hosey, a fifth-place finisher at 140; and Shahein Rajae, who earned a fifth place at 189.

Steve Hogg, a 103-pounder, was a sixth place finisher for the Chiefs.

canned three of four. As a team, however, the Rocks hit 14 of 25.

Hoskins continued to shine in the field as he led all scorers with 21 points. Abraham had 10 points.

One of the keys that unlocked the big Salem victory over the Mustangs was the outstanding team effort on defense. The Rocks held 6-10 Northville center Tom Knapp to nine points.

Also, Salem's 5-9 junior guard Kevin Savitskie also managed to limit one of Northville's leading scorers, Adam Konst, to nine points.

It also went right down to the wire in the Salem-Western game as Western struck fast and built up a 20-kids back they will be tough."

Stevenson, a power during the coaching era of George VanWagoner in the 1970's and '80's, stunned the Chiefs, 62-56, in their first conference encounter of the year. The Chiefs led 19-17 after the first period, but Stevenson rallied and outscored their hosts 11-6 to take a 28-26 lead at the intermission. The Spartans widened the gap to 47-38 for three.

"This Stevenson team is probably the best Stevenson team that I have seen in 11 years," said Rheault after the game. "They have a lot of talent and they're going to have a lot to say which team is going to win (the title), if they don't win it themselves."

Although he wasn't 100 percent due to an ankle injury, Meagrow managed to toss in 20 points to lead his team and share the game's scoring honors with Stevenson's Lyndon Ivejac.

Priebe and Kyle Lakso each scored 14 points in Canton's (1-1) first setback in the Western Lakes Conference.

The Chiefs will attempt to get back on the winning track again on Friday when they meet Churchill in the Livonia high school's gym.

pace as he finished with a game high 16 points.

The Zebras stayed within striking distance, despite falling behind 31-19 at the half. The Panthers were up 43-29 for three quarters.

"We played catch up most of the game after that first period, and when that happens you become careless and make mistakes. And that's what happened," Woodard said.

Wayne had only one player break into double figures. Mike Rashad collected 12 points.

At the foul line the Zebras had a nine of 11 evening as compared to Rouge's 13 of 21 output.

After traveling to Ypsilanti Tuesday night Wayne Memorial has a rare Friday night off. The Zebras are scheduled to return to the hardwood on Tuesday, Jan. 22, when they entertain Monroe, a team that is also having problems winning this season.

A week from Friday, the Mega-Red begins its second-round of competition.

Interesting Facts:

Fourteen semi-trailers are required to carry the 75,000-plus yards of carpet used for the exhibits and aisles at the NAIAS. If the carpet was made into a two foot-wide runner, it would be 66 miles long. With the average home using 125 yards, the carpet used at the NAIAS would cover the equivalent of 600 homes.

Auto show exhibits, theatrical lighting and sound equipment will use enough electricity to power a 360-home subdivision for six months.

...

Equipment needed to set up the show includes over 1,000 semi-trucks, 14 million pounds of freight, 75 forklifts, 18 45-foot booms, 20 scissor lifts, and 12 miles of electric wires.

In the 10 weeks it takes to prepare the NAIAS for the media and public, more than 1,500 carpenters, stagehands, electricians, Teamsters, riggers and ironworkers will be employed full time (12-14 hour days; some double shifts) until the job is done. (Times have changed, so has the show - 15 years ago the "Detroit Auto Show" could be built in four days.)

It takes many other personnel to prepare the auto show including: 200 janitorial workers, 500-700 catering personnel, 65 vehicle polishers, 135 car porters, 87 full-time Cobo Center staff members and 20 additional part-time Cobo Center staff members.

...

The total value of the exhibits in the NAIAS is in excess of $200 million, excluding the value of the more than 700 vehicles in those exhibits. And the exhibits continue to go skyward: More than 20 two-level exhibits will be featured at the 2002 NAIAS.

...

Double-deckers add another 106,000 square feet to Cobo Center's 750,000 square feet for a total of 860,000 square feet of exhibit space.

The auto show's annual Charity Preview event has helped raise more than $32 million for Detroit-area children's charities since its inception in 1976. The 2001 Charity Preview raised $6.125 million.

...

Since becoming an international event in 1989, the NAIAS has had 665 North American and world-wide vehicle introductions.

...

The Detroit show is one of the longest running auto shows in the country, running every year (with the exception of four war years) since 1907.

The auto show has been held in a number of locations, including the Michigan State Fairgrounds and the Detroit Artillery Armory. It moved to its home at Cobo Center in 1965.

The 2002
SLK 230
Kompressor

Intercooled super-charging fills its engine with enough asphalt-blistering power - 192 horses and 200 lb-ft of peak torque - to make short work of a long and winding road. And the SLK230's structural rigidity and handling prowess have drawn worldwide praise from automotive experts.

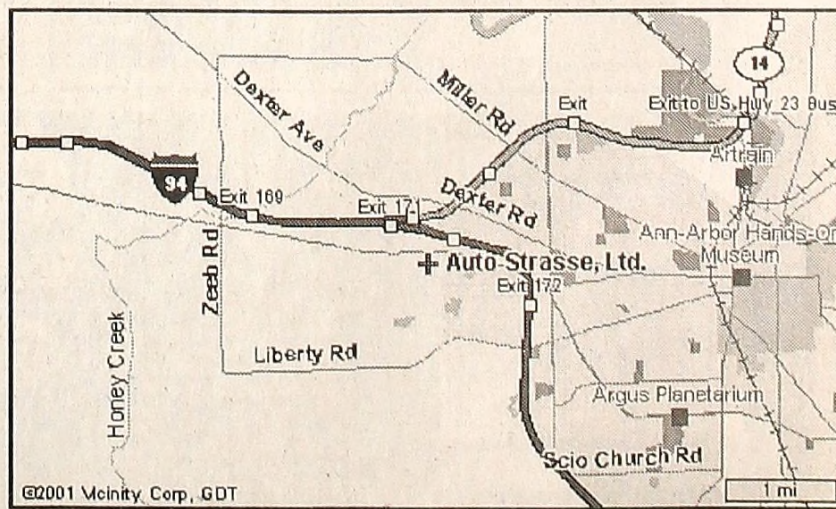

The 2002
ML 500

The luxurious ML500 turns up the heat with a scorching 288-hp V-8 engine and a 0-60 time of just 7.7 seconds.* It's one of the most street-sizzling SUV's around. And with standard in-dash satellite navigation, you'll always know just where to take that power.

*Stated rates of acceleration are based upon manufacturer's track results and may vary depending upon model, environmental and road surface conditions, driving style, elevation and vehicle load.
